

Museum moves into Selfridges

Primrose Hill's Museum of Everything is taking over one of the iconic and much-sought-after Selfridges windows.

The "outsider art" institution will in the spotlight from tomorrow (Friday) until October 25 in the famous high-end shop's largest exhibition ever.

Passers-by will be treated to an exciting glimpse of the exhibit. But the real fun starts inside where 200 never-before-seen international works of art will be accompanied by talks, screenings and workshops.